Introduction.

---

NINETY-NINE presents her L'AGENDA to the students and friends of Bucknell hoping that none who read its pages will be disappointed in their expectations.

The primary aim of the EDITORS has not been to exhibit any phenomenal originality, yet wherever possible we have introduced new features, which we believe will add to the merits of the book. Our desire has been to present to the readers of L'AGENDA a representation of college life at Bucknell. If we succeed in this endeavor, and our work meets the approval of the class of '99, under whose auspices this volume is published, and which has so kindly honored us with this charge, we shall feel amply rewarded for the time and labor spent upon its completion.

In several particulars we have departed from previous custom. The class histories have been left substantially as they were when handed to us by the historians of the respective classes. We have pursued this course because we believe that by doing so the histories will be more representative of the views and impressions of college life, as held by the different classes, than if we attempted to rewrite them. The boarding clubs have been omitted entirely in order to save space, which we trust has been utilized to better advantage in the literary department.

A word to our fellow students: If any of you feel that we have been too severe with you, remember that our treatment of you is not due to any ill feeling or spirit of revenge upon our part. We have only desired to supply the demand that exists for so-called jokes and grinds, and that cannot be disregarded without impairing the success of L'AGENDA. Please remember also that you have been especially singled out simply because you are the most appropriate subject for our purpose. It has been the endeavor of the EDITORS to avoid any references that would reflect upon the personal character of anyone.

That our efforts have not resulted in the production of a perfect work we are ready to admit. The most that we hope for is that our work will be a credit both to our class and to Bucknell. Criticisms we expect; praise will be gratefully received.

Respectfully,

EDITORS.

ADIE KYLE BELL, D. D.

ADIE KYLE BELL, D. D., was born in Antis township, then Huntingdon, now Blair county, Pennsylvania, December 9, 1815. His father, Edward Bell, having extensive business interests, put his son, when but a boy, in places where grave responsibilities had to be assumed. In 1833, when a little over seventeen years of age, he was converted under the labors of Rev. Thomas E. Thomas, and was baptized by him into the fellowship of the Birmingham Baptist Church. He actively aided in the organization of the Logan's Valley Church in 1837, of which he was a constituent member. In 1839 he was by this church licensed to preach the gospel. Although at home meeting with opposition to his desire to secure a good education, he entered Washington college, now Washington and Jefferson, from which he graduated in 1842. In October of the same year he was ordained to the ministry in the old Grant Street Baptist Church, in Pittsburg, and on the 27th of the same October he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Elizabeth Allen, of Dauphin county, Pa. During the following winter he aided in an extensive revival meeting at Hollidaysburg, Pa., where he became pastor April 1, 1843. He remained there one year, during which he held a meeting at Shirleysburg, Huntingdon county, at which he baptized forty-five converts, and with which he organized a church there. April 1, 1844, he became pastor of the Logan's Valley, his home church, where he remained until April 1, 1854, when he resigned and became Treasurer and General Agent of the University at Lewisburg, now Bucknell. While he held that position the main building and east wing were erected. In 1859 he left Lewisburg to accept the pastorate of the Sandusky Street Church, Allegheny, Pa., where he remained eleven years. His health failing, he withdrew March 1, 1870, from the active pastorate and purchasing a home in Hollidaysburg, removed there where he remained until 1876. During these six years he preached to pastorless churches as health permitted, spent a season in Europe, engaged in business and organized and established the Institute at Mt. Pleasant. In 1876 he became pastor of the First Baptist Church at Altoona, adding for several years to his labors the work connected with the General Agency of the University at Lewisburg. After twelve years of successful work at Altoona, his failing physical condition led him to resign the pastorate August 1, 1888, and in a few weeks, while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Aaron Wilson, at Rochester, Pa., he was taken seriously sick, and after four days of suffering, died, August 25, 1888, in the 73d year of his age. He was buried by the side of a deceased son in the Lewisburg cemetery. At this date, ten years after his decease, there yet survive him: Mrs. Bell, in ripe age, residing at Hollidaysburg; Mrs. Mary Bell Wilson, Institute, '60, at Rochester; Mrs. Nellie Bell Roller, Institute '66, and Hon. Martin Bell, College '69, president judge of the Blair County Courts, both at Hollidaysburg.

Dr. Bell was a trustee of the University at Lewisburg one-third of a century, from 1849, the year in which the charter of the University became operative, made so by securing $100,000 endowment, until 1882. He succeeded the first Chairman of the Trustees, Thomas Wattson, 1850-'74, serving 1874-'79. He was twice treasurer, 1856-'64, 1877-'82, thirteen years in all. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at the commencement of 1865.

Dr. Bell's father was a man of marked force of character. His mother was the daughter of a Mr. Martin, a Scotch-Irish Presbyterian clergyman. He inherited from these parents what in varied degrees went also to six other children, strong character-traits. He could have lived a life of ease and luxury, but he voluntarily selected one of labor and self denial. His work in the different relations of his life was carefully and well done. As a son he was trustful, as a pastor he aimed to build solidly and to indoctrinate thoroughly, and as a guardian of the University's funds and of estates he was vigilant and safe. Diligence in his study and fidelity to his people's home life gave him long pastorates and freedom from changes, except as other proffered relations seemed to make changes a duty. From the beginning of his ministry he stood clearly on the side of freedom for the enslaved. During the war of the rebellion his voice was clear and often heard in their behalf. All through his life he was an earnest and outspoken friend of temperance and an enemy of the liquor interests. Honesty in business was with him a cardinal virtue. Restlessness when responsibility did not press upon his mind, antagonism to slothfulness, kindness to the poor, contempt for shams, noble principles, zeal in all worthy things, tirelessness in performing what were duties, were dominant elements of this man's character. Especially in earlier life his remuneration for his labors was not large, yet he always gave freely, cheerfully but ever quietly. His home-life was simple, his manners courteous and his words arose from a pure heart. During the seven years in which I occupied a desk in his study, I never once heard a word that suggested aught else but thoughts that were refined and noble. His interest in education continued with him from the beginning to the end; going out in behalf of the common school, the secondary school and higher education, but to no school did he give the devotion and interest that he gave to Bucknell University.

Over and above all these things though, he pre-eminently placed his chiefest interest in his God, giving, always giving to religion the control of his life. He had unqualified belief, not doubts, in the Bible, trust in God, faith in the Son and submission to the Holy Spirit's dispensation. His preaching was plain, straightforward, Biblical and always full of honor for his divine Lord and Master. He lacked patience towards his brethren who consciously might pervert the Scripture or who would stop short of positive and open faith in God or His Word. As to his denomination, he loved it for its divine system of truth so logically and naturally arising out of what God has written for our guidance and salvation. At all times he stood like a rock for the defence of his doctrine, and strove constantly for the growth of his people. Wise and discreet, he covered in his own bosom his disappointments and his losses, whether these losses were in material things, or in what he put into men. He finished his course, scarcely suspecting that his work was yet done. For years he suffered much physically, but his courage, his fervor of Christian life, his pleadings before his Father's throne never forsook him, while his hope, of which he seldom spoke, was real and positive, and went with him, until through his Savior's call, hope was changed to reality.

HOWARD FETZER KING.

Ninety-Nine's Flower.

IN a garden gay and fair,
In the sunshine's brightest glow,
Where the softest breezes blow,
And the birds are singing low,
Grows the rose of '99.

In the garden of Bucknell,
High it lifts its crimson head,
And all may see, who there shall tread,
That ever loyal to the red,
Is our rose of '99.

When first the rose was planted there,
'Twas but a bud with petals closed,—
Not yet its color rich disclosed;
But now it stands with heart exposed,
The rose of '99.

Many flowers are blooming there—
Nature's treasures, rich and rare,
Watched and trained with tend'rest care.
But of all the rare, most fair
Is the rose of '99.

O rose, bright emblem sweet and true,
May you bloom and flourish ever,
Pledge of ties that weaken never.
We will loyal be forever,
Crimson rose of '99.

Class History.

"HISTORY repeats itself," quoth the wise man. We grant it. To claim that we are the "only original" class were folly. Preceding years have graduated classes with much honor. Suffice it that we have garnered in their wisdom, and now stand before you the "latest" original class!

You will count us over at Commencement time. Do so with respectful hand. Juniors!—Seek the source of our power; it lies in Metaphysics.

Sophs!—Lay aside some measure of your frivolity. Embrace Senior dignity.

Freshmen!—One word is enough. Copy the Juniors. You cannot as yet comprehend the length and breadth of Senior character.

Soon '98 will launch her bark upon the sea of life. But why launch? Have we not been sailing all the while? Very quietly, 'tis true, down a sheltered river to the sea. Few shoals to distress us, now and then a Scylla or Charybdis in the guise of a formidable Freshman class menacing our Sophomore rights. Many happy views and pleasures have there been. Now as June draws nigh, we look back, thankful that we have been permitted to enjoy collegiate privileges.

For look ye, Sophs and Juniors—likewise redolent Freshmen, that the end of college days may not find you gazing sadly back over a path of ashes and neglected opportunities.

But we may not philosophize,—time does not permit. The "latest original '98" bids you all a friendly farewell, and would drop the curtain with the parting injunction:—Forget us not!

HISTORIAN.

Farewell to College.

There is a sea—a broad and boundless sea—
One sails it if he will or no;
He sails it nobly, without fear, and free;
Or crushed with pain and woe,
With suffering, bonds and strife.
The sea is life.

* * * * *

A group of youths and maidens came we hither,
To whom the sea stretched out its broad expanse
As yet untried. For the journey
Each has fashioned for himself a craft;
A tiny thing, perhaps, and frail,
Which, when it ventures on the roughened main
May meet with many a tempest dread and stern
That shall so greatly wrench and test its beams,
That it shall well-nigh yield in weakness.

But, o'er the rugged billows of the deep
E'en now full many a craft has sailed away,
And, staunch and strong, with courage ever true,
They battle with the storms and swelling tides,
And each a constant pledge of hope.
To one who is just pushing off from shore
It is a painful thing to loose the chain;
To sever one by one the cords that hold him fast,
To leave the sheltering harbor's friendly care
Alight with ruddy glow of beauteous morn,
And turn away his face to depths unknown.

* * * * *

E'en so to thee—oh entrance to the vast unknown,
Oh noble door to noble life beyond—
To thee—our college home—which we have loved,
In sadness we shall say farewell.

We thank thee for the strength which thou hast given
To guide the little craft at our command;
We thank thee for the impulse thou hast given
To anchor safely in the better land.

—Poet.

Junior History.

IN deference to our position as Juniors, it would hardly seem becoming to our dignity as such to occupy this chapter of our class record with an account of those thrilling achievements, characteristic of underclass history. In fact our career as Juniors, so far, has offered no material for such a narrative. We have passed that stage, and in these few lines are recorded simply the affairs of a studious class arrived at a studious period.

However, although we can no longer take part in such contests, let us not allow our victories to fade from memory, but let us, in pleasant retrospection, look back upon the games of Basket Ball won from '98 and 1900, the Base Ball victory over the Freshmen, and our splendid record on the track, and regard them with the same pride that we did at the time of their occurrence.

So, while it was with a certain regret that we left those scenes behind us, yet it was with pleasant anticipations that we returned to school to assume our role as upper-classmen. Our course during the last year has been remarkably smooth and peaceful, with but little to disturb the "even tenor of our way." With Mechanics, Physics or Astronomy to meet immediately after breakfast one cannot feel exactly safe in spending the previous evening making plans to outwit Sophomores or to circumvent Freshmen. We have succeeded remarkably well in abstaining from these useless extravagances of youth, and our work in the classroom shows it. We have vanquished Barker with his Physics so utterly that he will not return to tell the tale to our successors.

However, it is almost invariably true that in the history of every class there is a period of internal discord, and '99 has not escaped its portion. We do not hesitate to admit it. A certain amount of contention gives evidence of spirit, and we, as a class, claim the ownership of a vast deal of that commodity. But let us proceed. The bone of contention on that particular occasion was the question as to whether we should have a Junior ball. After much preliminary discussion the time for the decision arrived, and the majority of the class discountenanced the project. Although the ball was afterwards given by those who favored the idea, as it was not under the auspices of the class as a whole, that brilliant social event can demand no place on these pages.

Since then we have proceeded amicably. The little unpleasantness caused by that single disturbance has been totally blotted out, and we are about to enter upon a Senior year, whose course promises to be as calm and untroubled as this one has been. Some one has said that "happy is the people whose history is uninteresting." Kind reader, conceive of our bliss.

HISTORIAN.

Ninety-Nine.

Listen to the story of that class of wide renown,
A class that's known as far as Alma Mater's name has spread;
That's waked the very shadows in this good old sleepy town,
And raised convulsive shivers in the classes just ahead—

Not dead,
'Tis said,
But waiting for this class to do them brown.

Even in its Freshman year this class raised great furore;
A score of sturdy champions it brought for field and track;
Made life a burden for the Soph, with pranks and tricks galore;
On banquet night and Field Day too, it put him on the rack.

Alack !
Quite black
With envy grew the haughty Sophomore.

But Sophomore is Junior now, and Freshman now is Soph.
Now Basket Ball with mighty zeal this class has learned to play,
Reluctant Freshmen sadly learn their hats to it to doff,
While on the diamond it finds them also easy prey,
This way,
In May,
Full easy came the Field Day contest off.

The Junior year again reveals the prowess of this class,
The Sophomore again has met his match in Basket Ball,
While Junior Ball again attracts the boys and girls en masse,
Just adding yet another to a list already tall—

Not small
At all,
But one that anywhere for good would pass.

So here's to Ninety-Nine, the class of all the school the best !
Long may she hold, with valor bold, her prestige and her might;
Throughout the onward journey tread the pathways of the blest,
And act for other classes like a guiding beacon light.

She's quite
All right—
This class of all the school that is the best.

Class History.

ON September 16, 1897, when Aurora, with her rosy fingers, drew back the veil of night and gazed upon the awakening world, she paused and held her breath in pure delight as she beheld the picturesque Century Class honorably emerge from the dry Freshman year and appear before the classic doors of Famed Bucknell, to enter upon a still more triumphant march through the soft and mellow Sophomore days.

Shortly after the opening of the Fall term the male contingent of this heroic band adopted a class cap, blue in color and two ciphers embroidered in gold upon it. The colors harmoniously blend with each other and are of deep significance. Blue is symbolical of loyalty, and gold is emblematic of worth—two virtues that have characterized the class ever since its arrival in Lewisburg.

One morning in October, immediately after Chapel exercises, we lined up along the path at the Bucknell hall entrance of the campus to salute the arrival of the "Innocents Abroad;" but the Freshmen interpreting this act of civility as a challenge for a contest, made a rush for the canes we were carelessly holding in our hands. A short, though intense, scrap ensued. The trophy the Freshmen brought from the battlefield consisted in the thorough knowledge that they had paid the price of defeat as a penalty for their impetuosity.

On the evening of January 10th we held our banquet at the Hotel Haag, Milton. The doughty Freshmen long had planned to intercept this carnival. However, at the appointed time and place we met and proceeded uninterrupted to our feast. Long after the banqueters had reached their destination, the tribe of Freshmen, realizing that their opportunity had flown, followed to see what harm they could do. On their arrival the horde first gazed with wondering eyes at the splendor within, then with brawl and shout strove to interrupt the banquet. But the Century Class, unmindful of the hideous din, kept serenely on with their feast.

As the midnight hour was striking, the banqueters placed aside the toothsome viands to listen to the tale in song and story of the greatness of their class. The unhappy Freshmen, weary of trying to attract attention, prowled about like hyenas hoping to obtain some bone from the lion's feast, wailing disconsolately to the midnight air.

In casting a retrospective glance at the achievements of our class, whether in the class room, on the athletic field, or in inter-class contests, sufficient evidence will be found to justify us in the assertion that our class has been thus far the "cloud by day" and the "pillar of fire by night" to lead other classes along the path of a beneficial and well-merited college course, and the unbiased critic will be compelled to declare with Joel: "A great people, and strong; there has never been the like, neither shall be any more after it, even to the years of many generations."

HISTORIAN.

Class Poem.

Golden gates in mystic splendor
At the breaking of the day,
Shifting, bid the slumbering mortal
Rise and journey on his way.

Rugged roads stretch out before him,
Pathless plains no rest provide.
Plodding on o'er hill and mountain,
Crumbling cliffs rich treasures hide.

Day is spent; the night is coming,
Twilight gently steals around,
Helping sleep to bind and fasten
Mortal prostrate on the ground.

Dew distils from out the heavens,
Dreams descend, dark clouds sweep by;
Visions vanish in the ether
By a stairway through the sky.

Golden flowers in profusion
Flood the stairway in delight,
Fast dispelling every trouble,
Chase away the gloomy night.

Mortal wakens. All the flowers
Sweetly sing a sacred song,
Shaking off the sparkling dewdrops;
At their beck he joins their throng.

All his learning seems to vanish,
Knowledge is but glimmering light
Breaking through some black oblivion,
Bursting through some Stygian night.

When at last the song is ended,
Fairies scatter here and there
All the fragrant golden flowers
Through the wide world everywhere.

Climbing up the steps of virtue,
Pause and listen to their songs;
Never yet hast heard complaining
One of all its woeful wrongs.

Golden gates in mystic splendor
Shift before us every day.
Enter, journey, struggle, conquer,
There can be no other way.

Freshman History.

THERE are many things which seem of themselves a whole, until time shows them merely a part of some greater, grander scheme.

So, time was when the Class of 1901 existed not as one, but many; not homogeneous but heterogenous.

In the Autumn of 1897, by a rare combination of some sixty-five elements, that glorious whole—the Class of 1901—was evolved and made its appearance upon the College Campus. You remember how that hill looked as you straggled up it that Autumn day. How at the summit the 'Varsity buildings towered solemnly above the town. On the East, the calm depths of the river seemed to offer promises of good times to come. Can any one be here long and not feel and love the spirit of the place?

That night the town of Lewisburg claimed you. Your Freshman eyes and ears have taken in all. The morning comes, and when you have stretched your drowsy length, you feel that your college life is about to begin. Everywhere you meet students. A certain confident air distinguishes 'Varsity from town.

Class organization day dawned bright and sunny; the exuberent energy of the long line of your future classmates showed that '01 even then had spirit. Who doubted that on the twelfth of October when the cane rush took place? The broad canopy of heaven was shedding tears of sorrow for the poor Sophs as they lined up on either side of the path on that eventful morning intent on bringing Freshy into submission. Do you remember what a thumping heart beat beneath your sweater and how your fingers itched for your adversary's hair, as with a "Ka-Zek! Ka-La!" and a "Ka-Re-Ri-Ro!" you pounced upon the unsuspecting Soph?

No gladiatorial arena in ancient Rome e'er saw a more spirited contest than that old College Campus of B. U. witnessed that memorable morning when 1901 overcame its enemies. Hearing that the Freshmen were soon to appear with hats, and nothing undaunted by former defeat, the overgrown Freshmen, otherwise known as Sophs, determined to coerce you into an Athletic contest to determine whether or no you might wear your new headgear. Freshman independence was demonstrated by the reply that you would not only enter the contest, but also don the petasus regardless of result. Had not the "Yellow-tops" wisely determined to desist from any interference, their numbers might have been sadly diminished.

Desiring to show the Sophomores that you were as capable of conducting an aggressive warfare as of assuming the defense, you appeared on October twenty-ninth with your class hats.

In doing this you established a precedent, as no other class had ever succeeded in raising Freshman dignity beyond an insignificant class cap.

As winter came on the excitement of the Sophomore banquet arose.

On the evening of January tenth, by the common consent of the wearers of the Royal Purple, they were permitted to partake of a mush and milk feast at the Hotel Haag.

After several humiliating impositions on the blind incredulity of the Sophomores you openly, although secretly, left town in broad daylight, on the evening of February eleventh, en route for the Hotel Haag at Milton.

The failure of the Sophomores to prevent the banquet by their much-boasted sagacity and vigilance is pardonable when you consider that their power to discriminate between a sham and the genuine had been blunted by too frequently surmising the latter.

The failure of the Sophomores to properly interpret the source of Freshman superiority is doubtless due to this fact:—that they fail to consider that no class has, for the past eight years, entered the classic halls of Bucknell with fewer conditions.

This much is certain, in whatever field the class of '01 has tried its powers, therein it has prevailed. By what it has done we surmise what it may do. Its name shall be written large on the annals of fame.

You are now near the close of your first year at college. As you, standing in the twilight of intellectual life, look back over your Freshman year, the path over which you came appears darker and darker in the distance; but, as you look forward you see the rosy streaks of the morning dawn, the heralds of the golden sun, in whose brilliant beams you shall live most glorious lives, and by whose light you shall unbar to your fellowmen the gates of intellectual life, happiness and peace.

Class Poem.

In that beautiful Land of Ideals,
From whose mystical shadows there steals
A fleeting and beautiful vision,
A rare glimpse of the gardens elysian,
The lotus-hung gates swung ajar,
Soft-stirred by a breeze from afar;
And forth from the dim borderland
There wandered a wonderful band.
The pansy, an emblem of rest,
Strewed the ground which their light feet had pressed:
And their valor and loyalty, proven
By shimmering purple and woven
Of red and blue mingled appear
In the battle cry rending the air
"In omnibus fidus"! We gladly enthrone
In our hearts, our hearts' sovereign, dear 19-0-1.

Class History.

THE "Violet" class of Bucknell Academy greets the public with this short account of its brief career. Owing to the natural modesty of violets we shall be too timid to exalt ourselves. Our ranks are small, but we hope the quality of those who compose them may more than compensate for any numerical deficiency.

In the Fall of '95 the first members of the class entered Bucknell. Since then the ranks have been largely increased. Each successive year has brought recruits, and, we regret to say, the loss of some members.

Last year we gave a Contest in Elocution which was reported very fine. We are the first class to be honored with such delightful affairs as Literary Symposia. Recently the brightest gems of the Literary World assembled in the classical parlors of the Institute. We were entertained by Mrs. Riggs, nee Kate Douglas Wiggin (who was none other than our own instructress, Miss Hanna). Wisdom and repartee flowed in intoxicating streams until we felt transported to Parnassus.

Along the athletic line our class can point with pride to two members of the Basket Ball Team. Last May in the Williamsport Sports our men honored their Class.

Our class has been a peaceful one. She was never disgraced or brought into disrepute by a fight, although her gallant sons distinguished themselves in the roles of rain-makers.

Now the time has arrived for us to leave the friendly halls of the Academy. Often in years to come we shall think with pleasure of the many happy days spent in the company of those who have directed our faltering steps to the altars of the Classics and Sciences. We now present ourselves for college. May we be given a cordial reception! We lay our best on the altar of success. May the gods hear our pleadings and grant our supplications.

At our next appearance we shall (let us hope) have become Freshmen. Until then we wish you, gentle reader, a prosperous twelve-mon'h.

Senior History.

NINETY-EIGHT'S history—her Senior history! Surely one who suggests such a thought is a raving Bacchante or a dreamer in the arms of Morpheus. Why, it was but yesterday that we gazed with absolute awe and reverence on that exalted being, a Senior.

Can it be that '98's life at Bucknell will soon be but a fond memory? Can it be that in a few weeks the only relation they will bear to their school will be that of devoted alumnae? Questions such as these sweep torrent-like over the mind of one whose privilege it is to write '98's history.

To an unbiased observer it would seem that the office of the historian is to prove to the public that her particular class is, by all odds, the most marvelous class that ever left, or ever will leave the institution. But this historian desires to announce her inability in the art of hyperbolic expression. We know that future classes never expect to do quite as well as '98 has done, but, by following her shining example, they may be able to impress the world by their brilliancy as she has done. It was suggested that an interrogation mark be placed after the preceding sentence, but '98's favorite motto is: "The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

Our first appearance before a critical audience was last year, when we held our soiree. On that eventful evening we ten frightened damsels walked up the aisle of Bucknell Hall to the tune of a beautiful march, which to us sounded more like a dirge, and took our respective places on the rather shaky platform. Then, after each one had read her essay, and after we knew that our soiree had passed without mishaps to ourselves or to our young assistants, what a load of anxiety was lifted from our minds! We stood in a fair way to have our heads turned by flattery that evening, for everyone expressed himself delighted with the unusual talent displayed in our productions.

If modesty did not forbid, how gladly would we tell you of the brilliant reception which we held this year! But two maxims have always been our guides; the one implying that the younger generation should be observed rather than listened to, and the other saying: "Speech is silver, but silence is golden."

In our studies we always took a lively interest, especially in Psychology. How we enjoyed reciting it on cold mornings when we huddled around the register, sometimes making our teacher laugh when we tried to reckon what topic we would get. Then, too, we were very fond of the History of Art, a course in which was just introduced this year. Our teacher was very well liked by all the girls, especially when he talked the whole hour, and saved us from the thing we hated most,—that of talking about things which he could describe so much better than we.

This being the last appearance of the class of '98, we desire to take advantage of this opportunity to declare our unwavering devotion to Bucknell Institute, and to express the ardent hope that the reunions of '98 may be models for their frequency and good-fellowship.

A last adieu to Bucknell.

The Alumni.

---

THE day on which a student is graduated is, very properly, called Commencement Day. All that precedes is preliminary and preparatory to his entrance on the field of real life. He has, indeed, fulfilled all the requirements of a fixed curriculum, and is henceforth exempt from the routine observance of college law; but as he steps from the platform, with Diploma in possession, he becomes an active and responsible factor in shaping and modifying the affairs of his fellow men. No longer under tutors and governors, he assumes that separate and independent position for which his long and severe training qualifies him. With his advent into a new world his college ceases to be for him a school for discipline, and rises into the tender character of an Alma Mater.

There are no reminiscences more fondly cherished than those which root themselves in college life. A man may change his neighborhood, his business connections, or even his church associations, and find compensation in new environment; but he can never have a second Alma Mater. Under all circumstances, beneath all skies, and through all the stretch of years, the alumnus carries the memory of the one college life, with its work and its play, its struggles and its triumphs. There is nothing that can displace it, nothing that is comparable to it. Its very uniqueness makes it precious. Whether success or failure shall attend him in after life, the alumnus looks back to his college days as the one bright period which neither success nor failure can obliterate or obscure.

Probably few undergraduates project their vision so far into the future as to consider what their Alma Mater shall be to them when they look at her from the high ground of middle life or old age. Nor is it likely that those in authority always give heed to the possible attitude which the graduate may assume when he passes beyond their control, and is at liberty to form and express opinions without losing caste. If the love which an alumnus is supposed to have for his Alma Mater is one which cannot be transferred, it is important that nothing shall occur in his college course that shall weaken or destroy it. And if the great body of the Alumni is the reservoir from which the college is to draw its largest and best supplies of sympathy and sustenance, it is equally important that the authorities shall so adjust themselves to the student as to secure the advent and continuous devotion of the Alumnus to his Alma Mater.

The undergraduate needs so to deport himself that his retrospect shall be one of joy and not of regret. He is in close relationship with his professor, his classmates, his fellow students, and in some degree, his friends in the outside world. His conduct toward all these should be such as that, when he comes back in after years as a visitor at Commencement, he shall be able to meet them with manly dignity, and receive from them all a hearty welcome. It may not be easy to live such a life. College days are full of queer episodes, intense rivalries, sporadic scimmages, defeats and victories. The overplus activity of youth, liberated by daily mental application, is apt to formulate itself into cliques, express itself in extravagant postulates, conceive intangible grievances, and draw lines not to be found in any mathematical text-book. But these ebullitions are of limited range and short life. Back of them all is a sense of right, growing more and more intelligent, and making its possessor master of the situation in the interest of comity and good will. Self-control is one of the acquisitions not laid down in the official order of studies. Nevertheless it is attainable; and he who acquires it gives guarantee for a happy connection with his Alma Mater.

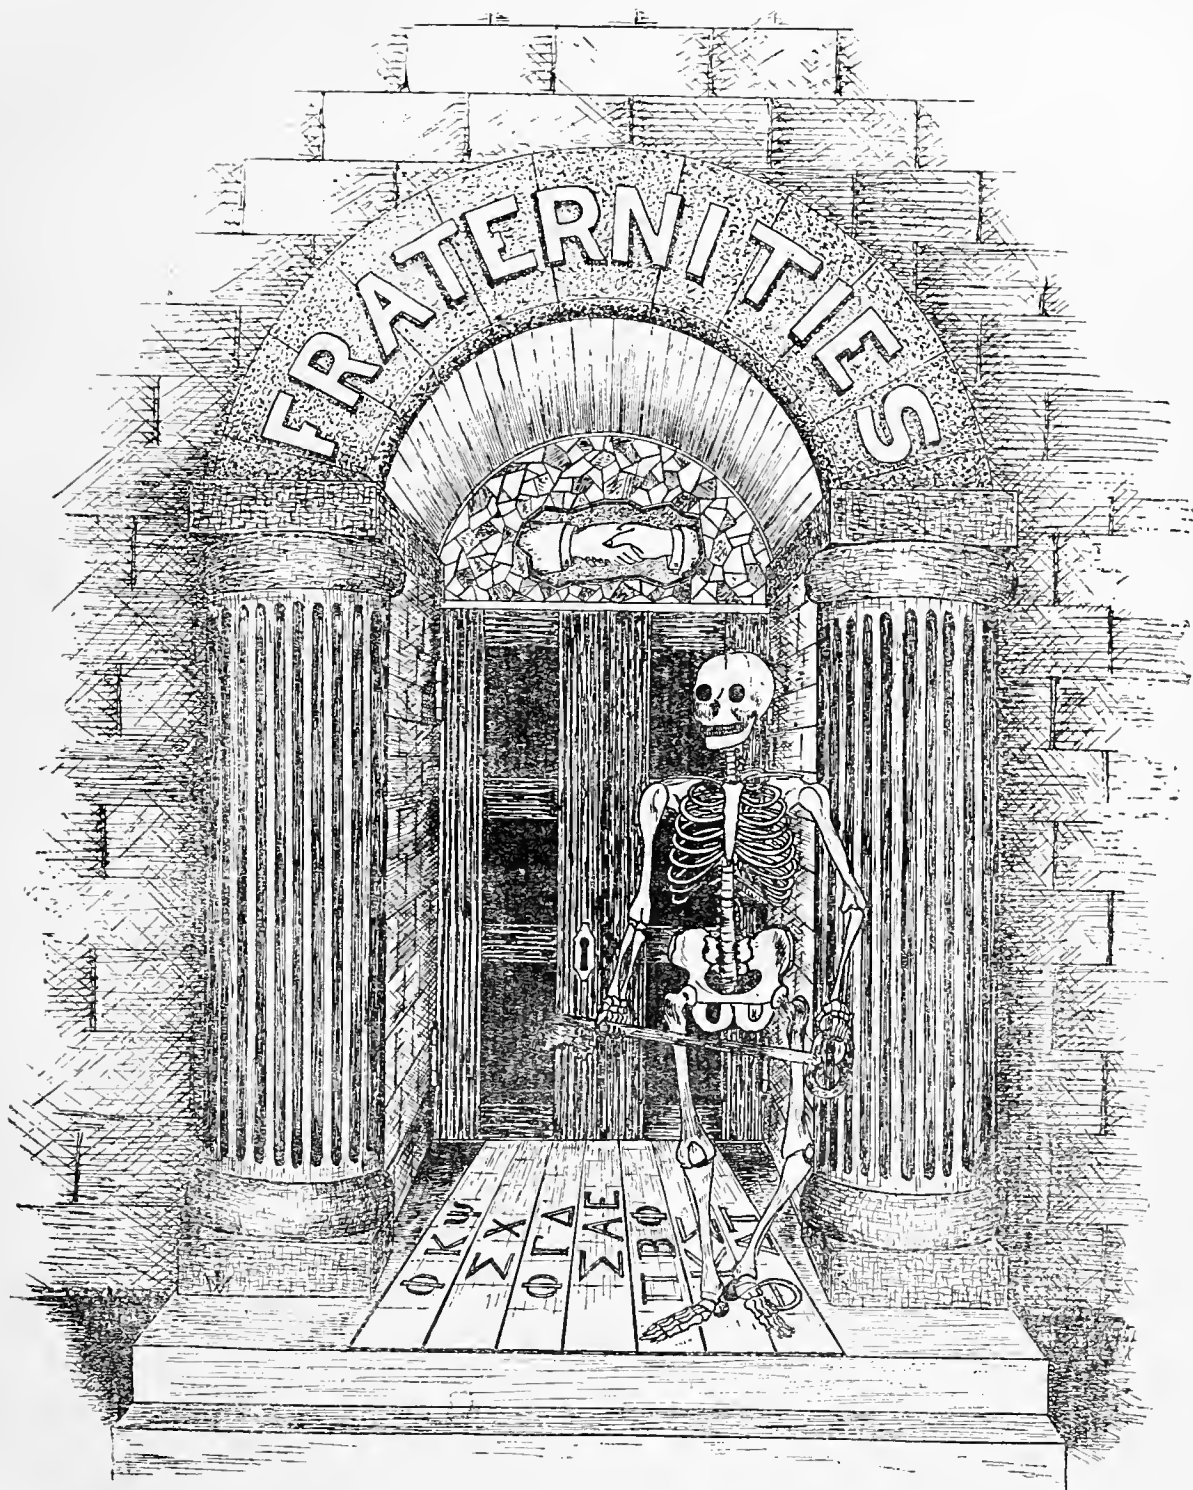

Class spirit easily develops itself into loyalty to Alma Mater. There are classes and classes. Last year the class of '72 held its quarter-century reunion, three-fourths of the members being present with their wives and children. It is safe to say that such a class will preserve its fidelity to Alma Mater. Some classes have not had enough cohesion to bring their members together once after graduation. Of course temperaments differ, and interests clash; but a class can put itself above the individual and cultivate itself into unity for its own sake and for the sake of Alma Mater. Moreover, the student naturally feels an attachment to his teachers, unless there is some good reason for withholding it. As an alumnus he thinks kindly of his professors, and they represent to him all that is good and beautiful in his Alma Mater. The Literary Society has a charm to some students; to others the campus is the well-tramped field of prowess, to others still the symposium is the perpetual bond of union. All these contribute to the devotion of the alumnus, and inure thereby to the benefit of Alma Mater. Everything that tends to the continuance of college life in the memory of the alumnus should be promoted and quickened by the undergraduate.

Occasionally the exit of a graduate is an unhappy one. He takes his degree, and thenceforth his Alma Mater is nothing more to him. He has his grievances, real and fancied, and he never forgets them. In his soul he has no Alma Mater. Others return to the annual feast, but not he. His name is in the list of sons, but he nevermore recognizes his mother. Alas! Perhaps a kind word would have held him; perhaps not. Let the undergraduate beware that he erect no high wall between his alumnus life and his Alma Mater. And let the powers that be see to it that no alumnus shall have other than the sweetest memories of his Alma Mater.

The Alumni Clubs in different parts of the land testify to the enduring quality of college experience. There is power in the old college name to revive the old college life. The old songs are sung, the old stories are told, and the old battles are fought over again. As the years go by and the brown thatch turns to silver, the heart grows more mellow and the voice more tender. All the pleasant things become more vivid in the distance; all the ugly things lose themselves in the haze of the remote past. Some there are to whom not one familiar face remains to remind them of that student life. The years move rapidly and the changes are many; but the loyal alumnus never forgets his first love. Those who have no other personal tie to draw them to Commencement find in their Fraternity the one thing that changes not. Men may come, and men may go, but the true alumnus retains his ideal while life lasts.

SKETCH OF FRATERNITIES.

THERE are six Fraternities at Bucknell,—Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Pi Beta Phi, and Kappa Sigma. A class fraternity, Theta Delta Tau, and local fraternity, Theta Delta Psi, in the college, two sororities, Beta Delta Pi and Pi Phi, in the institute, and a sorority, Phi Delta Kappa, in the School of Music, are also maintained.

Phi Kappa Psi was the first fraternity to enter the school, establishing her Pa. Gamma Chapter in 1855. A local society, Iota, was founded in 1861, which three years later obtained a charter from Sigma Chi. These two fraternities prospered until 1865, when faculty opposition to fraternities became strong. Phi Kappa Psi placed her charter in the hands of her alumni, but Sigma Chi continued active in spite of the regulations until 1879, when a more liberal policy prevailed and the charter of Phi Kappa Psi was again entrusted to the active chapter. A chapter of Theta Delta Chi was established in 1866, but died in 1871. Phi Gamma Delta established her Delta chapter in 1882. No other fraternity entered the school from this time until 1893, when the Penna. Zeta chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was established. This was followed two years later by the Penna. Beta chapter of Pi Beta Phi, the only national ladies' fraternity at Bucknell. In 1896 the Alpha-Phi Chapter of Kappa Sigma was established.

The only class fraternity at Bucknell is Theta Delta Tau, a Freshman fraternity, the Delta chapter of which was established in 1895. In 1897 a local college girls fraternity, Theta Delta Psi, was founded.

Phi Delta Kappa Sorority.

In this sketch Phi Delta Kappa makes her first bow. She has no apologies to make for her advent. She is a society not with a past but with a future.

Phi Delta Kappa held her first meetings in December, 1897. It was early in this month that the project of establishing a Greek-letter sorority among the girls of the School of Music began to take form. However, there was no public announcement of her advent until January 29, 1898, on which date her members came out with pins and colors.

The pin is a gold lyre, appropriately signifying devotion to music; but her members propose that she shall not only have music wherever she goes, but the usual attendants upon a well-ordered and successful fraternity.

OLMSTED—"Old Heart of Oak."

MISS DEWOLF—"She lived where Newark's towers
Look out from Jersey's piney bowers."

HALL—"An everlasting example of perpetual weariness."

COOK BROS.—"Two lovely pumpkins moulded on one vine."

SLIFER—"Let another man praise thee and not thy own lips."

FORRESTER—"For a backwoodsman uncommonly intelligent."

EDITH SHEPARD—"A little lower than the angels."

TOM EVANS—"A sweet and passionate wooer."

PEACOCK—"All the great men are dying and I don't feel very well myself."

CATTERALL—"With teachers he will never disagree;
If they'll recite, great goodness, why should he?"

GEARY—"Up! Up! my friend and quit your books,
Or surely you'll grow double."

TILLEY, '98—"Some sprinkled freckles on his face were hung."

BECK—"I am a burr, I stick."

KRESS—"Everyone is as God made him, and oftimes a great deal worse."

BAYARD—"He stands for fame on his forefathers' feet."

TILLEY, '98—"Among us, but not of us" (the Juniors.)

THOMPSON—"I'll use another's brains."

GARNER—"Pleasure is sweeter than business."

MESERVE—"Now may Jove, in his next commodity of hair, send thee a beard."

PURDY, '98—"Ne'er yet hath 'deacon' of that kind wrought any good."

BUNNELL—"The ladies call him sweet."

BURGE—"Heavens! What am I?"

MEEKER—"I can't agree."

ENGLF—"I have a truant been to industry."

WEITHAASE—"Voice and man, how out of harmony."

SAUSSER—"For as his own bright image he surveyed,
He fell in love with the fantastic shade."

BALLENTINE—"A pin a day will make a groat a year."

SHERWOOD—"Oh, why do you walk as if you had swallowed a ramrod?"

MCQUISTON—"O, that my lips could utter
The thoughts that in me arise!"

SNYDER—"A terror with the ladies."

GOODMAN—"A young Adonis, lovely, fresh, and green."

RENN—"A verdant Freshman is a curse,
But a "scab" Sophomore is worse."

HAGUE—"His sober lips then did he softly part Whence of pure rhetoric whole streams outflow."

SIMONS—"A dainty cherub, rosy-cheeked and mild."

CARRINGER—"Not one word spake he more than was neede."

KREN—"For he was lean and lanky."

MISS BOLENIUS—"There came wandering by
A shadow like an angel (?) with bright hair."

STAPLETON—"Neat, but not gaudy."

SAUL—"And all who knew him wondered that he passed."

BIDELSPACHER—"O, Amos Cottle! Phoebus! What a name!"

TRIMMER—"Agent of a more powerful villain."

W. G. O.—"I wish that old L'AGENDA was in Halifax."

ELLIOTT—"With the ladies
He was always raising Hades."

CUTLER—"A sportive kid."

GILPIN—"Away, thou rag, thou quantity, thou remnant!"

THOMAS—"And how his audit stands, who knows, save Heaven?"

RITTER—"Excellent wretch!"

WILTBANK—"E'en though vanquished, he could argue still."

WARREN—"Lady, thou art the cruelest she alive."

DUTTON—"The tenor's voice is spoilt by affectation."

FITHIAN—"This is he
That kissed away his hand in courtesy."

SMITH—"Fate tried to conceal him."

MISS GUTHRIE—"I would the gods had made thee poetical."

LEVAN—"How I detest the vain parade of big-mouthed words of large pretense."

STOBER—"Ach! Was fuer ein mann!"

CRAIG—"Tho' lost to sight, to mem'ry dear
Then ever wilt remain."

Bright Sophomore in Chemistry Class :

"Professor, is Sal Ammoniac any relation to Ann Hydride?"

Mr. C., translating French: "I have a queer thought in my head."

Prof. R.: "What is that sentence illustrative of, Mr. C.?"

Mr. LeVan, volunteering: "The truth."

Sic semper—Freshmen !

"The efficiency of a couple is measured by the product of the forces and the length of arm.

"Red heads are hard to classify "

Opinions on Co-education.

- CRAIG: It is all right but there isn't enough of it.
TODD: A question of grave importance, especially to bachelors.
AYARS: I have no particular use for it.
WILLIAMS, '00: It is of no great benefit to a bashful man like myself.
BOGART: I think it is a God-send.
STOBER: An ABOMINABLE nuisance.
ANDERSON: It is a dead failure.
HUFF: It marks the greatest stride ever made in civilization.
BELL: It is sure to ruin our country.
COOKE, '98: I am a Senior, and as such pronounce it a success.
FITHIAN: It has been the making of me.
LAUDERBAUGH: In my case it has been a success.
STABLER: The world would be a failure without it.

THE WAH = HOO.

Organ of the Intelligence Office and Bureau of Information of Bucknell University.

VOL. VIII.

LEWISBURG, PA., JUNE 1, 1898.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

GREETING.

In presenting this new Bulletin to the public, the I. O. B. I. B. U. calls attention to the very large increase in our business since the appearance of the last issue, ten years ago.

Then we had only twenty want ads., eleven positions, twenty-one requests for information, and one explanation of the greatness of the under officers of our corporation. It is not necessary to enumerate the advances made since then; this WAH-HOO, on which the Secretary has expended much labor, speaks for itself.

It is learned on good authority that new dormitories are to be built during the summer of 1898. The dirt obtained in excavating the cellars is to be used in grading the Athletic field. On the authority of Mr. Joseph Schultz, Esq., we state that there will also be enough to build a path across the Academy campus, so that the Treasurer of the I. O. B. I. B. U. can go to meals without getting his feet wet. Really, this is an age of advancement!

We take great pleasure in announcing to an admiring public that through the kindness of our Secretary a fund has been started for a monument to our Vice-President. So far we have received contributions, and generous ones at that, from the Secretary and Treasurer, and the General Intelligencer. Bogert also subscribes on condition that information be gleaned as to why he didn't get the Base Ball managership. The subscription is now opened to the public, in order that those noble souls in whom capacity for recognizing a good thing is inborn may have a chance to express their feelings.

The proposed monument is to be of brass, after plans submitted by Bill Thompson, the noted sculptor, and quondam governor of Lewisburg's Casino. His plans provide for a statue which is to be a full sized representation of the American cousin of the Mexican burro, passant over a bog noire, in the act of delivering his matinal song; bearing burdens representing the University, the Senior Class, and Theta Alpha; the girth inscribed with the motto: "I am Sir Oracle."

Subscriptions (cash only) may be left with any one of the under officers of the company, but on no account to the President, as his memory is bad.

There is a certain young man in the Junior Class against whom we feel impelled by our love of fellow-mortals, to warn all self-respecting students. He is one of those swaggering, loud-mouthed fellows, who approves (I blush to say it) of dancing, and who has been so intemperate as to drink twice in one evening. (This is a fact for which we can vouch, as it comes through one of our regular informants.) He actually had the boldness to speak in slighting and ungodly terms of the prospective ministers of the Gospel about Bucknell, and that fairly in the presence of the Most Holy (Sec. I. O. B. I. B. U.) who is one. Verily, brethren, with such is the kingdom of darkness to be filled, where there will be weeping, and wailing and gnashing of teeth.

THE WAH-HOO.

THE WAH-HOO.

LEWISBURG, JUNE 1, 1898.

Published by the Intelligence Office and Bureau of Information of Bucknell University.

President, BENJ. THOMAS.

Vice-President, J. NOSEY COOKE,

Sec'y and Treas., DITTO COOKE.

General Enlightener, The Same Cooke.

THE WAH-HOO is first class, and was never admitted anywhere as anything else.

As every one is supposed to take at least one copy, it is delivered everywhere, all notices to the contrary notwithstanding, and the price, One Dollar, collected by fair means or foul.

FOR advertising rates see some other column, or the general Intelligencer. If a member of the faculty, send address, and 10 cents (stamps) for special rates, sent in plain sealed envelope, by registered mail.

Examination Papers.

This series has been compiled from the examinations of the last five years. It is confidently predicted that the examinations of the next five years will be substantially the same, with the possible exception of No. 4. By this thoughtful attention THE WAH-HOO hopes to cause great relief in the ranks of the flunkers.

English Literature.

1. Give an outline of my lecture on Pope. Quote the bright remarks.
2. Name all the prominent English authors, give quotations and my comments.

3. Explain why this text-book is not as good a one as I would write.

4. Explain the classical allusions in "Angels on tombstones," "Gingerbread," "Two miles to the joke."

5. How many times during the term have you failed to laugh at my jokes as I read them from the margin of my book?

(NOTE. On the answer to this question depends your term average.)

Logic.

1. Give chapters 1 and 2 of the book.
2. Give chapters 3 and 4.
3. Give the origin and development of logic as explained in the library references given.
4. Give the rest of the book.
5. Write some more about the book.

(NOTE. Not less than 15 pages of manuscript will be accepted as an examination, 23 or more means Ex.)

Juvenal.

1. Trans. Sat. I, ll 147-170. Give construction of every fifth word.
2. Explain any references to Roman sports in above passage.
3. Explain Roman games of ball.
4. Why is not modern athletics, (except in case of Base Ball) to be compared with Roman?
5. Trans. Sat. IV, ll. 1-117.
6. Give a history of each of the characters mentioned.
7. Describe a Roman (a) House, (b) Bath, (c) Street, (d) Temple, (e) Fish-net, (f) Water-pipe.
8. How is modern Base Ball a development of the Roman?

Physiology.

1. Describe the skeleton.
2. Describe the skin.
3. Describe the muscles.
4. Describe the spinal cord.
5. Describe the tendons.
6. Describe the cranial nerves.
7. Describe the arteries.
8. Describe the heart, lungs, liver.
9. Describe the lymphatic system.
10. Describe digestion.
11. Describe respiration.
12. What would you do in case of drowning?
13. What would you do in case of burning?

NOTE—Write 30 pages and spend 3 hours. If you have not fallen asleep more than six times every two weeks you will pass.

These questions will not be used next year.

Mechanics.

1. Have you laughed at my jokes?
2. Have you been able to draw figures on the board whenever called on?
3. What do you think of my jokes? (favorable answer necessary.)
4. Do you know sound when you hear it?
5. Give 3 reasons why I should have a larger share of the Lab. than Dr. Groff.
6. Why did I stop having my classes sign the Princeton Pledge?
7. What is mechanics?
8. Describe the X-ray.
9. When was I at Berlin?

Mediæval History.

1. Describe my trip to Europe.
2. Describe my trip to Europe.
3. Describe my trip to Europe.
4. Describe my trip to Europe.
5. Describe my trip to Europe.
6. Give the dates mentioned in the books studied.

Trigonometry.

1. What is a triangle?
2. How would you lay out a running track?
3. What is a co-sine?
4. What are the Bucknell records in track athletics?
5. How would you find the area of the base ball diamond?
6. Describe one of my bicycle trips.
7. Who is Young?
8. Why did Starbuck beat Michael?
9. What is the best bicycle road in the part of the country from which you came? (If you are from Jersey you need not answer this question, but take 10 instead.)
10. How many sandy places between Camden and Atlantic City?

French.

1. Decline pers-pronouns.
2. Give parts of Avoir, Prendre, Aller.
3. Give gender of boue, hibou.
4. When is quelque chose masculine?
5. How do you like my method of teaching French?
6. What shall I ask "Catter" and "Wey," in their examination?
7. Where did I study last summer?

THE WAH-HOO.

HELP WANTED.

Three lines inserted free. If more space is needed it will be granted, except to members of the Chapel Choir, whose wants are too many.

WANTED—A a ma-au to-o te-ell me-e whean to-o waeike u-up. BECK, '00.

WANTED—A careful man to direct us to the H<sub>2</sub>O. and the hydraulic acid. GRIMM & SMITH,

WANTED—Someone to lend me smoking tobacco. Permanent position to right party. Must be sober, honest, and Dutch. HOTTENSTEIN, '01.

WANTED—A lady stenographer, to help me with my work on the next Foot Ball season. Must be a new woman, know how to take tickets, rush the growler, and roll cigarettes for my friends. Apply in shorthand. (Pittman-Howard system.) RUSH H. KRESS, '99.

WANTED—Another one as good as Dutton used to be. M. E. C. '98.

WANTED—Some good man to cnt me out of delivering trunks at the Hill. It can't be done, so no one need apply. SAUL, '98.

WANTED—Anoder Tutchman so Tutch as I am, "by tam." STOVER, '98.

WANTED—Each morning from 1 'til 2, a careful, middle-aged man to help me find my keyhole. GRANT.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

WANTED—By a man who has had experience, another paper to work on. Reading proof is one of my strong points. GILPIN, '98.

WANTED—Any kind of a situation by a bright boy who is a good talker, provided it is near Kress, as I want a chance to guy him. Will be satisfied with small wages. BURGE, '98.

WANTED—By a man who has had experience, another paper to work. THOMAS, '98.

WANTED—An inventor who is out of employment, can have a lucrative position if he can devise some way to keep us quiet. BOWER BROS.

LOST AND FOUND.

FOUND—An opportunity to show off. All persons warned to prove prior right, or else make no effort to interfere with my posession. BUNNELL.

LOST—The man who cut my hair. If found at large, please inform Thompson and get reward.

LOST—Several keys to East Hall. If returned to the Principal no reward will be given, but many questions asked. THE PREPS.

FOUND—Several days ago, an elaborate, two-story, cast-iron, shot-proof opinion of myself. Former owners must prove property and pay costs. APGAR, '00.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED TO KNOW—How last year's L'AGENDA knew enough to list me as a K. S. KOONS, '98.

WANTED—A box car built for two. X., Y., and Z., '98.

WANTED—A "young" pipe to learn on. Ugh! That last was a terror. Big price paid for the right thing. "HUGGO," B. C. R.

HEADGEAR—Warranted strain-proof; wanted for a pronounced case of megacephalis, condition serious, prognostics unfavorable. Apply at once, with sample or model. GILPIN, '98.

WARNING—All persons would better go armed when near Gundy's Siding, as since the departure of Craig (for Hymenia) Lindie has been getting restless, and it is feared that last year's escapade may be repeated. SCHAFFER & DEPPEN, Asylum Wardens.

NEW JOKE WANTED—Something on the almanac plau. Highest price paid. PERRY.

ALL INTERESTED in the investigation of the recent marriage epidemic are invited to be present at the next meeting of the Engaged Men's Club, June 12, 8 P. M., at the new club rooms.

DRY GOODS—Grand Spring sale of goods, mostly a little shop worn, but still good for long service if rightly handled. This is no forced sale, and what are not disposed of will be kept in stock another year, but our prices on some grades are so low as to make them rare bargains. O. G. BILLIUS, Lab.

SEALED proposals will be received at the office of the undersigned until June 20, 1898, for 200 bottles of Tasteless Hair Eradicator, suitable for use on club butter. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. BELL, '00.

“—— Dear.”

The shades of night were falling fast
As slowly by the window passed
A youth, who whispered 'neath his voice
A phrase which seemed a strange device
Of “—— dear.”

His brow was sad, his eye beneath
Flashed like a falchion from its sheath;
The whisper of his voice grew strong.
“Oh how my heart just now doth long
For “—— dear.”

A happy home were mine to-night,
Had I ne'er seen thine eyes so bright;
But since their light on me hath shone
I'm doomed to roam this world alone.
Oh! “—— dear.”

“Turn not away,” a low voice said,
As light streamed from the room o'erhead,
And then the window opened wide,
And in ecstasy he cried—
My “—— dear.”

“O stay,” sweet —— said, and rest
Thy weary head upon this breast,”
A tear stood in his bright (?) blue eye,
And then he answered with a sigh,
“No, —— dear.”

Alas! next morn stretched out by a log,
A youth was found by Charles' dog;
Still fixed upon his lips of ice,
That phrase which seemed a strange device
Of “—— dear.”

There in the twilight cold and gray;
Lifeless, but beautiful, he lay,
And from the Sem. came a maiden fair,
And cut from his brow a lock of hair.
'Twas “—— dear.”

To 1900.

With the Compliments of 1901.

The Freshmen had some little lambs
By the name of Sophs, you know,
And everywhere the Freshmen went
Their lambs were sure to go.

They followed them through town some days
That made a splendid guy,
And it put the people in a maze
To see the Sophs play spy.

They listened hard for every sound,
At the shop doors lingered near,
And waited patiently around,
'Till the Freshmen did appear.

And then they ran to them and laid
Their hands upon their arms,
As if to say "We're not afraid,
We're ready for alarms."

"Why do the Sophs love the Freshmen so?"
The people all did cry,
"There's Banquet in the air, you know,"
The Freshmen did reply.

Dedicated To _____

A Freshman was to college sent
To learn to be more tony.
His thoughts were not on study bent,
And so he rode a pony.

The Freshie tried to work the Prof.
Poor Fresh! he was a dandy,
The pony threw him meanly off;
Poor Fresh! He was a dandy.

And now his friends his absence mourn;
Indeed they miss him sadly,
His Pa and Ma, they can not learn
Why 'twas he farced so badly,

1901.

Poor Freshie left us in his prime,
Because he made a flunk-ah.
He never 'felt well in this clime
And so he packed his trunk-ah.
Amen-n-n-n!

Moonlight Reflections.*

---

I heard the trailing garments of the Dean,
Sweep through the Annex hall;
I saw her dainty skirts all fringed with white,
As I stood beneath the wall.

I felt her presence and her mighty mein,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm, majestic presence of the Dean
And NOT the one I love.

I cried, "I'm starved. Do throw me down some food,"
In accents loud and shrill;
"I'll throw you some advice," she cried, "and would
You go now up the Hill?"

Hallowe'en.

---

They call it serenade,"
The students,
When singing 'neath the shade
Of oak tree;
And stars shine overhead,
And maidens are abed,
As should be.
But when the slumbers are disturbed
Of teachers,
And wrath of faculty incurred
By students,
Then teachers give to melody
A name like this, "charivari!"

Billie Locked the Door.

There came a morn last autumn term,
When Freshmen 'gainst the Sophs stood firm,
And, just to make the Juniors squirm,
Our Billie locked the door.

They came from Chapel, bold and grand,
(Yet weak at heart) with cane in hand;
Right on the path they took their stand,
When Billie locked the door.

The Freshmen came, and saw, and fought,
Yes, fought like men, as Freshmen ought,
'Gainst whom the Sophs could count for naught,
When Billie locked the door.

The Juniors stopped to see the fun,
And then, the battle fairly won,
Went for the Lab., e'en on the run,
But Billie locked the door.

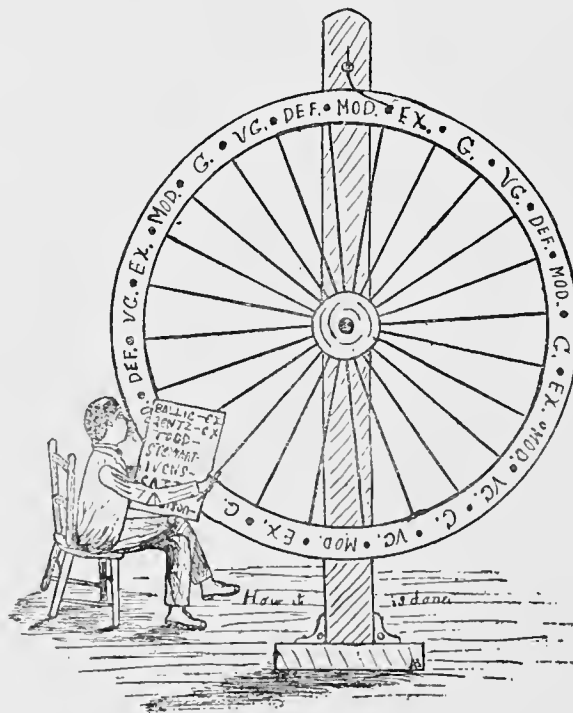

Inside he stood, and waved his key,
And smirked and grinned in fiendish glee,
That all might see how glad was he
That he had locked the door.

Six luckless souls to class had gone,
And, missing Chapel, missed the fun—
Knew nothing of it 'till 't was done,
When Billie locked the door.

And one or two, of meeker sort,
Not deigning sanction to such sport,
Went straight to class, good marks to court,
When Billie locked the door.

O Billie dear, you're just the stuff!
But even we can call your bluff,
Since Physics' roast we've had enough.
Now, Billie, lock the door!

"AFFUL."

As they put out their light,
This prayer unto heaven they make:
"May we ne'er that day see
When the dread C. H. B.
Comes, us off to the station to take."

IT IS THE BEST FOR TEACHERS AND SCHOOLS, BECAUSE
Words are easily found. Pronunciation is easily ascertained. Meanings are easily learned. The growth of words easily traced, and because excellence of quality rather than superiority of quantity characterizes its every department. It is thoroughly reliable.

The Pennsylvania School Journal says:--The International Webster is a treasure house of universal knowledge to which all the world, in all its ages, has made contribution, and any one of us may have it at his elbow. Of its half hundred specialties, each of value and importance, the most attractive to us is its etymology, an unfailing source of interest and enjoyment, often of surprise and wonder.

Explanation.

The lotus-crowned scribe of the immortals is presenting the latest papyrus from "Truth," which she unrolls above her head from his favorite shrine, the scroll case. The cancelled vista is an avenue of sphinxes with a row of mummies between their paws. The closed lips at head and feet spoke only in riddles—perhaps concerning origin and destiny—about which life was silent as death and the stars until the coming of Ujhipps. The sun-decked serpents on the bracelets show the sovereignty of the press; and the radiant lotus on the brow of Hithress Satekh was a frequent adornment of columns and beauty—sacredly associated, it seems, with culture and divinity. A white this flitting out of the shadowy pylon may have suggested the birth of an idea, and hence the god of thought, Truth, whose portraits occur on the scroll-case.

The practical significance of the above design is that all other dictionaries are Silent when asked for information concerning thousands of words which they do not contain. The new

Funk & Wagnall's Standard Dictionary,

with its 301,865 vocabulary terms, breaks the silence, and answers with authority thousands of questions heretofore unanswered by any dictionary great or small. This is the oracle which you must consult if you want to know all the secrets of our rich language. Send for prospectus to
